Airline Policies & Procedures

Each person is allowed to check up to two pieces of luggage, including carry-ons. Any additional pieces are subject to additional airline charges, which are generally $80 or more for each additional piece. Thus, you might consider bringing a large duffel bag, gun case, and carry-on's (i.e., camera bag).

You are restricted to a maximum of 50 pounds per piece that is checked. Anything above this is subject to additional charge.

All firearms must be transported in a hard-sided container capable of being locked.

While ammunition can be carried in the gun case in a separate container, shells cannot be in the chamber. You are allowed up to ten pounds of ammo, which must be shipped in checked baggage. We recommend transporting ammo in a duffel bag. Ammo must be in some type of ammo container. · Law prohibits the transportation of hazardous materials such as compressed gasses, flammable solids and liquids, poisons, and corrosives, which includes lighters. · you are not allowed to carry on knives of any sort, but you can put them in your checked baggage.
